 publication of the Pike's
 Peak Chapter of IFMA

Mission Statement:

To advance the professional growth of our members and develop the profession.

President's Message

Dear Chapter Members,

As I embark on my new role as Chapter President, I continue to think back to how I got into this position. When I returned to IFMA 3 years ago, I immediately found myself involved by attending meetings regularly, then the word got out I knew something about web sites and I was asked to redesign the Pikes Peak Chapter web site. From there I have held the positions of Technology Chair, Communications Chair and was asked to step in as Vice President/President Elect.

I have enjoyed every minute of it! I am a firm believer in you get out of life what you put into it, and IFMA is no exception. I would like to challenge every member of this Chapter to get more out of your membership over the next year. Participation can take many forms;

- attending monthly luncheons and seminars, social and educational events
- volunteering for a committee
- providing feedback or suggestions on program topics
- providing articles for the newsletter
- volunteering to help with our charity events with Rebuilding Together
- participating in the BOMA/ IREM / IFMA golf tournament
- submit your building or project for a COFAX award
- attending IFMA National events such as World Work Place and many more

I am thankful that I will be surrounded by an excellent board to work with me to bring you, the membership, the information, resources, networking and educational opportunities you need to be successful facility professionals and service providers. Stay tuned for information on upcoming events and meetings. I welcome your feedback, ideas and encourage your participation.

Sincerely,
Pam

Benchmark the Way to an Energy Efficient Facility Online tool offers a free guide to efficiency

By Brandon Lorenz

For facility executives, the term “benchmarking” may conjure up images of nightmarish hours spent sifting through spreadsheets and data to fulfill another corporate fad. But in reality, benchmarking offers the clearest roadmap for making energy efficiency improvements.

“I think it’s critically important to benchmark,” says Kurt Padavano, COO of Advance Realty and past chairman of the Building Owners and Managers Association (BOMA) International. “If you’re going to be competitive in the commercial real estate industry, you need to know what the rest of the industry is doing.” Sponsored Links:

secure and less costly to operate

Benchmarking has meaning beyond commercial real estate, however. Facility executives who manage corporate space will be competing against other departments in their companies for funding when they present projects to the CFO. That means facility executives need to demonstrate that they are putting the money towards the project with the best return.

“If I have 70 buildings and I can’t benchmark the properties first and see where the opportunities are, it’s very difficult to know where to focus the capital and human resources,” says Padavano, whose company is responsible for 5 million square feet of space.

ENERGY STAR Portfolio Manager is a free Web-based tool that allows facility executives to do just that. “I’ve not found anything that comes close to the resource that EPA has built into the ENERGY STAR Program,” says Padavano.

The Lighter Side

Caught Sleeping In Your Office Cubicle

Best excuses if you get caught sleeping in your office cubicle:

"It's okay: I'm still billing the client."

"They told me at the blood bank this might happen."

"This is just a 15-minute power nap like they raved about in that time-management course you sent me to."

"I was working smarter, not harder."

"Whew! I must have left the top off the liquid paper."

"I wasn't sleeping! I was meditating on the mission statement and envisioning a new paradigm!"

"This is one of the seven habits of highly effective people!"

"I was testing my keyboard for drool resistance."

"I'm in the management training program."

"I'm actually doing a "Stress Level Elimination Exercise Plan" (SLEEP) I learned at the last management seminar you made me attend."

"This is in exchange for the six hours last night when I dreamed about work!"

"I was doing a highly specific Yoga exercise to relieve work-related stress.

Do you discriminate against people who practice Yoga?"

"Damn! Why did you interrupt me? I had almost figured out a solution to our biggest problem."

"The coffee machine is broken."

"Someone must've put decaf in the wrong pot."

"Boy, that cold medicine I took last night just won't wear off!"

"It worked well for Reagan, didn't it?"

"I was cross-training for telecommuting."
